The University of Virginia
School of Engineering and Applied Science

CONGRATULATES

Barwise Prize Winner

Professor Deborah G. Johnson
Department of Science, Technology and Society

NAMED BY THE American Philosophical Association

In honor of her significant contributions to philosophy and computing
Barwise Prize Winner

Professor Deborah G. Johnson
Department of Science, Technology and Society

The American Philosophical Association, through its Committee on Philosophy and Computers, awarded Professor Deborah G. Johnson the APA Barwise Prize in recognition of her significant and sustained contributions to areas relevant to philosophy and computing.

Professor Johnson is a leading authority on computer ethics. She is the Anne Shirley Carter Olsson Professor of Applied Ethics and chair of the Science, Technology and Society Department at the School of Engineering and Applied Science. She is the author or editor of four books on ethics and computing or engineering. She has published more than 40 papers on these topics.