The Smithsonian’s Lemelson Center for the Study of Invention and Innovation, the University of Virginia School of Engineering and Applied Science’s Department of Science, Technology and Society and the Robert H. Smith International Center for Jefferson Studies at Monticello

CORDIALY INVITE YOU TO

Technology and Democratic Values in the Early Republic

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 2006
5:30 P.M.
THE ROTUNDA
UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Please RSVP by October 20 to Vanessa Pace at (434) 924-3425 or by e-mail at vpp@virginia.edu
Featured speakers include:
• Robert Parkinson, Shepherd University
• Brian Murphy, University of Virginia
• Jeffrey Matsuura, Alliance Law Group

This is the opening session of our conference, “Inventing America: the Interplay of Technology and Democracy in Shaping American Identity,” continuing on Saturday, November 4, at the Harrison Institute.

YOU ARE INVITED TO JOIN US FOR A PRIVATE RECEPTION IN THE LOWER WEST OVAl FOLLOWING THE PROGRAM.

For more information about the Inventing America conference and its schedule, visit our Web site at invention smithsonian.org/events